Abstract:

The learning of English is a vital activity in Indian classrooms. English is also like any other language. The learners practice the skills of English Language with the help of some techniques. The methods of English language teaching are ever changing as long as the language learning exists. The methods are basically conceptual and get refined from time to time. So also, the English Language techniques too get refined depending on the needs of the learners. The learning atmosphere and the outcome of learning and the needs of the world outside are interlinked. A resourceful English teacher is expected to employ different applicable techniques

DYLAN THOMAS AS A POET

Smt. K. L. Chamundeswari Devi

M. A., M. Phil. (English)

Lecturer in English

S. R. R. & C. V. R. Govt. Degree College (A), Vijayawada, A. P.

Abstract:

Dylan Thomas was a school of his own. "He was anti tradition by nature, by place and by inclination", according to Karl Shapiro. Dylan Thomas's poetry was born out of the bankruptcy of the Yeats – Pound – Eliot "tradition" and all it stood for. Thomas has been a protest against the intellectual writing of the Auden School. He has a distinctive poetic genius in him. He started his career as a Surrealist and in opposition to the Intellectual School of Auden. In him, Edwin Muir has seen "the natural magic which Arnold attributed to the Celtic Genius". Edith Sitwell likes Dylan Thomas for his sound, his sensuousness and his rich vocabulary. To others, Dylan Thomas has appealed as "a poet of feelings", as a poet who is engaged in discovering himself. Still, there are others who think him to be in the line of William Wordsworth . . . singing of Nature, Innocence and Childhood. Dylan Thomas has

The tiny foot is an indelible image,
A father's heart cherishes it;
A mother's love holds it, preserves it.
You are a spotless petal
The shine of your tender cheeks
Makes your parents' hearts leap
Not in the past, beyond the time . . .
Like the waves reaching out the starry lines.
For me you are antique and classic
